Observations...

By the Editor

The annual spaghetti supper sponsored by the Mothers Club of St. Joseph Academy will be held at the Knights of Columbus Home on Main Street, Wednesday Night, October 10. . . . The charges . . . $1.00 per plate . . . This affair has been a real treat each year, and this year, of course, will be no exception. . . . It is suggested that you get your tickets early as it usually is a sell out. The ladies promise you a palatable meal, with all the trimmings. . . .

This weekend we see Bay High Tigers and Stanislaus Rocks on the home field. . . . Bay High met Perkins High Thursday night and the Rocks met Bogalusa tonight. Last week our teams were handled a little rough, when De LaSalle defeated Bay High 13-0 and Stanislaus was trotted by McComb 47-13. . . . Have to lose some of the games boys. . . . It is just not in the book for you to win them all. . . . Keep up the school spirit and fight as hard as you can. . . . When you do this, your folks are going to back you to the limit. . . .

We just hate to stay with one subject all of the time, but there must be some way to overcome the dumping of garbage helter skelter. Drive along the roads on the edge of town, and on some of the streets in the city, and what a greeting your nostrils will receive. . . . We certainly would like to know just what prompts folks to use the roads and the streets as dumping grounds. . . . Is it the lack of civic pride in certain individuals, or could it possibly be that there are not sufficient garbage collections. . . . There must be some way to put a stop to it. . . . It is not good advertising for Bay St. Louis and Waveland, when it becomes necessary for people to hold their noses when they drive into your town. . . . Possibly a little more policing, and, as we have said before, a small incinerator may be the answer. . . . Be that as it may, some effort should certainly be made to put a stop to it. . . .

We want to congratulate our friend, Chance Cole, Editor of the Picayune Item, for the splendid edition he put out last week, publicizing the Pearl River County Livestock show which is being held in Picayune this week. . . . Chance is a good newspaper man, and he has done a splendid job with the Item. . . . It is among the best weeklies in the State. . . . His paper is a credit to the wide awake little City of Picayune, and by the way, we see where Chance and Murphy Weir of the Democrat at Poplarville are having a battle of words. . . . It seems that there has been made about organizing a new county with Picayune as the County seat. . . . It all started about the distribution of the road funds in the County. . . . Got a little hot last week; we are looking forward to the issues of both papers next week. . . . We are surprised that Chance and the Picayune boys are not trying to annex a part of Hancock County. . . .

Hunderup Speaks To Brotherhood

Rev. Herman Hunderup, pastor Franklin Avenue Baptist church, New Orleans, was guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of the local First Baptist church held Monday evening of this week. Twenty-three members were present.

Kenneth Whitfield, president of the Brotherhood, presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker.

Rev. Hunderup took as his text verses 26 and 27 of First Samuel: "And Saul also went to Gibeah; and there went with him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched."

"But the children of Belial said: Now shall this man save us? And they despised him, and brought him no presents. But he held his peace."

The speaker dwelt on the great need for men whose hearts God had touched. He said there are two groups of Christians—those whose hearts have been touched by God and those who make no contribution to the advancement of the Kingdom of God—sons of worthlessness he termed them. Men of the church, Dr. Hunderup said, are essential to carry out the purpose of God. His talk was inspiring and he issued a challenge to the men of the local church, and all churches, to be

W M S To Observe State Focus Week

Jackson, Mississippi — W. M. S. Focus Week will be observed for the first time by the 669 Baptist Woman's Missionary Societies in Mississippi October 14-19.

Being observed this year in Mississippi and Tennessee it is destined to become an annual affair throughout the South beginning next year, it was said by Miss Edwina Robinson of Jackson, Executive Secretary of the Mississippi Baptist Woman's Missionary Union.

Marked by a series of special activities the purpose of the observance will be to focus attention of the entire church and community on the aims and purposes of the W. M. U. and to strengthen the work and influence of the W. M. S.

The two W. M. S. organizations in Hancock County are scheduled to participate.

County Bond Sales Reach $78,344.00

Sales of Defense Bonds for the first eight months of 1951 reached a total of $15,109,105 for Mississippi. Of this amount, Hancock County sold $78,344 during this period. These figures were released by Leo G. Ford, Chairman, Hancock County Defense Bond Committee.

Mr. Ford pointed out that the principal purpose of the Defense Bond Drive which began September 3, and extends through October 27 is to encourage continued practice of bond purchases by individuals; thus, discouraging inflationary spending, and to maintain and increase the wide distribution of the Public Debt.

The Chairman further pointed out that Hancock County should sell many more bonds during the drive period as the county's part in the Nation's Defense Program.

Defense is everybody's job, and it is just as important for Americans to buy bonds now as it was in the dark days of 1941.

Gerard Bell, A Local Resident, Returns From Bombay, India

It is a far cry from Bombay to Bay St. Louis, but the cry has reached us here — a cry for understanding of conditions in Bombay and for help of the underprivileged.

Gerard Bell, U. S. Merchant Marine, just back from Bombay where his ship took a cargo of relief grain, tells of conditions among certain groups in Bombay — a story that pulls at the heart strings of a people who have never felt want and fear.

"As I left my ship and walked through the docks, I saw conditions which I could not imagine existed. The most abject poverty is so evident, and these conditions have bred a race of people to whom life means little," he said.

The group, who are no longer under British rule, seem, Mr. Bell said, rather lost and a "don't know where they are going" attitude prevails. There has been little or no improvement in general conditions primarily because the native government has not set up plans for internal management of their resources; or, perhaps, has not yet had sufficient time to do so. The fact that there is no improved method of farming in a measure is due to lack of irrigation.

Mr. Bell, in a sleeping position on the left, is shown on the seaway in Bombay, with a group of natives. He seems to be charming a snake, shown in the basket at the left.

An interesting and informative film was shown at the Rotary luncheon hour Wednesday entitled "The Price of Freedom." The story was built around the experience of a young man who is succeeding his father as the publisher of a newspaper which was founded by his grandfather.

The film emphasized the priceless value of our American Heritage by dramatizing the fictional experience of the young man and shows how treacherously our constitutional rights can be undermined just as they have been in totalitarian countries.

The picture, in a manner, charged the people of the United States with indifference, complacency and threw a note of warning to the people of this country. The film makes no attempt to spell out all the answers, but allows the audience to arrive at its own conclusion. The moral of the story is inescapable.

The film, produced by the National Association of Manufacturers, was brought to the Rotarians through the courtesy of Wilson Webb. To all who saw it, it is a reminder that eternal vigilance is the price of Freedom—our most valuable birthright.

Rocks To Meet Bogalusa Tonight

The Bogalusa Lumberjacks are due at Bay St. Louis tonight to take on the Stanislaus Rockchaws. Sports scribes have already conceded the game to the Jacks by a score commensurate with what McComb took the Rockchaws last Friday. Stanislaus was taken to the cleaners 47 to 15.

Coach Day of Stanislaus is stressing strengthening of the line defense which seemed to fall apart in the second quarter last weekend. Aside from the second quarter, the Rockchaws played an even seven game against the more experienced McComb team.

Rooney, star half of Stanislaus will not be able to get into the game Friday night. He suffered a head injury at McComb, and although he does not feel any ill effects, the doctor wants him to watch the game from the sidelines. Andrew Scafidi, starting center, will also be out because of a knee injury received in an auto accident Sunday morning. Both boys are expected to be in good trim for the Vigor game at Mobile next weekend.

The Bogalusa-Stanislaus game will get under way at 8 p. m. at the Stanislaus Stadium.

the centuries this has prevented a progressive and complete attitude to life."

"I had only to walk a few miles," the traveler said, "to come to the section of beautiful homes with every modern convenience and beautiful grounds, all of which are mute testimonies of great wealth. But I could not enjoy these scenes, as I should have liked, because I was having seen the dire poverty among the poor wretches."

Bell had the good fortune, while in Bombay, to meet an American, William Carter, of Shreveport, Louisiana, who represents the Caltex Oil Company in Bombay. He also met an Englishman who has been in Bombay for 20 years and is official photographer for the Indian government and color photographer for the leading Indian magazines. Through knowing these men, Bell had the advantage of meeting many interesting people there.

He attended a concert in the Taj Mahal hotel by invitation of his English friend, and he heard music from the great masters. The solo pianist was an Indian; he also heard the leading string ensemble of the East.

These concerts, he said, are exclusive and there are few of the people of India attending.

After bottoming hole, the article continued, the company spent several days in running various surveys and taking sidewall samples before plugging the hole.

It is believed this information, according to the Mississippi Oil Review, will not be released until further exploratory work is conducted by the company on its huge block in the area which consists of approximately 150,000 acres. A sizeable amount of the acreage was added to the block during drilling operations at the No. 1 Weston.

Plenty Of Fishing Is The First Step In Making Good Pond, Barnes Says

"You should fish more is the first step if you are trying to carry out good farm fish pond management," V. L. Barnes, Fishery Biologist of the State Game and Fish Commission, stated as he spoke to a group of Hancock County citizens interested in farm fish pond management at H. C. Voorhies' pond, six miles northwest of Kiln, Tuesday afternoon, September 25, at 2:00 o'clock.

Mr. Barnes said that to carry on good farm fish pond management, the pond should be on the proper soil type; have a wide water outlet; should be fertilized during the spring; every two weeks at the rate of 100 pounds of 6-8-4 commercial fertilizer with ten pounds ammonia per acre of water until the water becomes so cloudy that you cannot distinguish a bright object 14 inches under the water; stock the pond at the rate of 1,000 Blue Gill Bream and 100 Bass per acre of water; clean all grass and brush out of the pond; and fish trap or seine at least 200 pounds of fish out per acre each year.

Several questions were asked; one was "How can weeds be controlled around the edges of ponds?" Mr. Barnes stated that the weeds could be controlled by spraying the grass with 2, 4-D 40% or 2, 4, 5-T at the rate of one tea cup to five gallons of diesel oil. Another question, "How can algae be controlled?" The answer was to fertilize the pond, and it would die from lack of sunlight.

Randolph Bourgeois, Game Warden, and James Bishop, Hancock County Soil Conservation Service, aided in this demonstration.

James L. Tolar, Assistant County Agent introduced Mr. Barnes.

Other Agricultural agents present for the demonstration were J. A. Morgan, Conservationist Aid; A. M. Penton, Vocational Agricultural instructor; S. S. Neacase, Veterans' instructor; and Albert Fleming, Assistant County Agent.

A delicious supper, prepared by expert cooks, will be served at the K. C. Hall, Wednesday, October 10, by the Parents Club of St. Joseph Academy.

Renewal Of Vows.....

St. Augustine's Seminary, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. — The little chapel of St. Augustine's Seminary, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, was again the scene of total self-surrender to God when seventeen young Divine Word clerics consecrated their lives through the holy vows of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience on September 8. Some were making their third profession, some their fourth, one his fifth and still others their sixth and two their final and perpetual vows. The two pronouncing perpetual vows were Frater Thaddeus Bouree, S. V. D., of New Orleans, Louisiana, and Frater Gerald Lewis, S. V. D., of La-Boca, Canal Zone, Panama. These two are now ready for Major Orders and will be ordained priests this coming summer.

CLERMONT HARBOR NEWS

MRS. J. G. TREUTEL, Reporter

Have you any news?
If you do I would appreciate it immensely if you would jot it down on a piece of paper and drop it in the little box in the post office. Thanks a lot. Everyone likes to read about his neighbor and the Echo likes to print news about you.

On September 22, 1951, the Kiwanis Club of Mid-City, New Orleans, Louisiana sponsored a picnic for twelve orphans from the Sacred Heart Asylum in New Orleans, at President Lloyd C. ## RYE GRASS AND CRIMSON CLOVER LEAD GRAZING TEST

State College, Miss.—Rye grass and crimson clover were the most profitable winter grazing crops at the Brown Loam Experiment Station at Oakley during the severe winter of 1950-51.

Reporting on last winter's grazing experiments, John B. Gill, and Robert E. Coats pointed out well established as it had been that fescue in the test was not seeded the preceding fall.

The extent of the winter injury is reflected in the beef gain produced by each crop. The rye grass-crimson clover pastures were severely damaged in the February freeze but made rapid recovery. On the oats-red clover pastures the winter injury was severe and these crops recovered slowly. Slight winter injury was noted on the fescue and the rate of growth of the fescue was greatly reduced during the first half of February.

Severe weather interrupted grazing on oats and red clover and on rye grass and crimson clover.

Steers grazed on fescue alone produced a net return of $21.14 each, or $24.66 per acre of land used. Steers on fescue and white clover netted $28.93 each, or $38.57 per acre. Oats and red clover produced a net return of

WINTER GRAZING TESTS PROFITABLE DESPITE WEATHER

State College, Miss. — Four groups of steer calves were fattened on winter pastures at the North Mississippi Branch Experiment Station at Holly Springs last winter. A fifth group was fattened on a full fed low ration for comparison with the winter grazing group. Considering the severity of the winter, gains on some pastures were excellent and profits from all animals were very good, S. P. Crockett and B. L. Arnold, of the station staff, reported.

Steers fed a full ration of corn and cottonseed meal in the feed lot made daily gains of 2.11 pounds per animal, and a net return of $55 per head.

$43.02 per steer, or $30.39 per acre. Rye grass and crimson clover made a net return of $75.30 per steer, or $103.86 per acre. In computing these values, only one-third of the cost of seeding of fescue alone, fescue and white clover, and rye grass and crimson clover is charged to the year's account as reseeding should not be necessary every year.

Change in beef prices increased the profit somewhat. Steers on the plots containing fescue were purchased for 27c per pound and those on the other two combinations cost 24c per pound. All were sold at the rate of 28c per pound.

Another group of steers, kept on a pasture of fescue and ladino clover, made a daily gain per animal of 1.01 pounds and produced a return of $54 per animal. The pastures were stocked at the rate of one calf per acre, and the calves were on pasture from October through May. They were fed hay for 10 days during a period when the pasture was covered with ice, sleet and snow.

A third group of calves began the winter on an oat pasture but was removed on January 9, and because of winter damage to the oats, remained off the remainder of the winter. They were fed crushed ear corn and cottonseed meal while off pasture. This group made a return of $47 per animal.

Two groups of steers were fattened on rye grass pastures. The two groups made daily gains of 1.55 and 1.77 pounds per animal and profits per animal or per acre of $77 and $88.

"Though satisfactory gains were made, considering the severe weather, the profits are due in part to the spread in the price paid for the calves in the fall, and the price received for them in the spring," Superintendent Crockett said. "Nevertheless, the use of winter pastures for fattening spring-dropped beef-type steer calves of good quality continues to be quite attractive, just as it has in the previous two years."

Spray Poison On Grassworms Now

State College, Miss.—It is easy to poison grassworms, which are completely destroying pastures and grazing throughout Mississippi where farmers have not been quick to notice the pests and apply control, according to L. C. Murphree entomologist, agricultural Extension Service.

Watch closely for possible appearance of grassworms, he urged. Danger from them continues until frost.

Damage first shows up as skeletonized leaves, or most of the leaf except the veins being eaten, in spots over a field. Closer examination will show small worms eating on the leaves.

Control grassworms by using toxaphene or DDT, either in the dust or spray forms.

Rate for dusting is 10 to 15 pounds per acre of either 20 percent toxaphene or 10 percent DDT.

For spraying, use two pounds of technical toxaphene, or one pound of technical DDT, per acre. This would be one quart of eight-pound toxaphene emulsion, or one-half gallon of two-pound DDT emulsion, mixed with the necessary water to cover one acre.

If not controlled, the worms will eat and grow, becoming one to one and one-half inches in length and completely destroying the grazing crop, Mr. Murphree said. The pests prefer young, tender pasture grasses, oats, ryegrass and other fall grazing crops.

—Mrs. Jerome Carver, who has been seriously ill at Memorial hospital, Gulfport, is said to be improving.

—Gaspar Maurigi, Sr., who has been ill for several days, is said to be improving. He will be back at his place of business Monday.

O P S NEWS

The District Office of Price Stabilization in Jackson announces removal of price controls from 22 types of businesses, all offering services to the public. These public services have little effect on the cost of living or cannot practically be controlled, OPS said.

Businesses affected are: Advertising agencies, barbers and beauticians, claim adjusters, dues and assessments of clubs and associations organized exclusively for non-profit purposes, custom house brokers and foreign freight forwarders.

Detection of flaws in railroad rails by detector cars, justices of the peace, labor relations officers, managers of actors, actresses or athletes, maritime pilotage services, services of mortgage brokers or mortgagees.

Newspaper carrier hand delivery service, commissions paid distributors of petroleum products on consignment, process servers, public relations counselors, real estate brokers, agents and appraisers, grants of rights under patents, trademarks or copyrights.

Services supplied directly by federal, state, territorial or municipal governments, ticker services, tree surgery services and wrecking services.

All firms not now receiving copies of regulations and other information material affecting their business may do so by merely writing to the Regional Office of Price Stabilization in Atlanta, the District OPS Office advises.

Firms desiring to receive such material from OPS should write to Distribution Center, Office of Price Stabilization, 114 Hunter St., S. W., Atlanta, Georgia, giving the name of the firm, full mailing address and a brief description of the nature of the business. Copies of all pertinent regulations will be mailed free of charge, OPS said.

Firms that are already receiving copies of regulations or who have been notified that they are on the mailing list, should notify the Regional OPS of any change of mailing address.

SEASONAL ICE PRICES

Ice dealers who have customarily varied their prices according to seasons may continue to do so under a new provision of OPS Ceiling Price Regulations.

The new order allows manufacturers and distributors of ice whose prices were higher in July 1950 than in December 1950, to adjust their prices month by month to follow the pattern existing during the previous season. If the dealer elects to price in this manner to obtain seasonal increases in prices, he must also adjust his prices downward following the 1950 pattern in the off season. He must also post a schedule of prices conspicuously, showing the seasonal changes.

More Limestone Applied In 1950 Lee, P M A, Says

Limestone applications of over 29 million tons to the soils of the United States in 1950 were next to the heaviest ever made, according to Fitzhugh Lee, chairman of the Hancock County PMA Committee. The only year when more lime was applied was in 1947 when over 30 million tons were used.

The use of limestone is important to the Nation's conservation program, Mr. Lee points out, because much of it is used on land to be planted to legumes. Legumes hold the soil in place, improve its structure, add organic matter and stimulate the growth of grasses grown as companion crops. Legumes such as red clover and alfalfa make up most of the bulk of the winter feed of the country which constitutes dairy and beef cattle as well as sheep.

In the State of Mississippi the lime applied in 1950 totaled 238,431 tons. Here the limestone is applied principally to such crops as pasture, perennial legumes and winter cover crops.

This year farmers are especially urged to have their soils tested to determine whether lime should be applied, Chairman Lee stated, since phosphates in neutral soils are much more available than in acid soils. This is particularly important this year to stretch the limited supplies of phosphates.

Members from Lakeshore who attended the Blue Jean Garden Club meeting were Mrs. Ola V. Moran, Mrs. Horace Russ and Mrs. Ruth Miller.

Mrs. Lily Radovich, Lakeshore postmistress, is still waiting to receive word of her replacement.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES Cottage Cheese Is A Menu Help

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

Lots of folks think of cottage cheese mainly as a supplement to tomatoes during their garden season. And nothing can be much tastier.

But don't mark cottage cheese off your menus during the rest of the year. It's good with canned peaches or pears as a salad. It makes a good sandwich for school lunches in combination with boiled eggs and a touch of pickle or onion, if you like.

Or, try it sometime mixed with a flavor of onion or garlic, salt, pepper, lemon juice and mayonnaise on crackers. On a cold winter day these cottage cheese heated crackers are delicious with a bowl of steaming, home-made vegetable soup.

Bake a cherry pie without the top crust. When it is cool, cover it with a lattice-work of cottage cheese forced through a pastry tube.

The children will enjoy jack-o-lantern open face sandwiches on Halloween. Spread bread rounds with cottage cheese and give them "faces" features with olive slices, diced pimiento or nuts or other things you might find on your pantry shelf.

MAKING COTTAGE CHEESE

To make cottage cheese, pour 1 gallon of fresh, sweet milk, either whole or skimmed, into a pan. Add 1 cup of firm clabber of cultured buttermilk. Let the milk stand in an atmosphere of 70 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit until firmly clabbered. If the weather is cool, set the pan in lukewarm water to make the milk clabber. Cut the clabbered milk into inch cubes with spatula. Loosen the curd from the edge and bottom of the pan with spatula or curd cutter. Let stand 10 minutes without stirring.

Pour about 1/2 gallon of water that has been heated at 120 degrees Fahrenheit (a little hotter than lukewarm) over cubes of clabber. Place rack or cloth in bottom of dish pan. Place pan containing clabber cubes in dishpan. Pour warm water in the dishpan and heat slowly until the clabber reaches 110 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit. Heat the water slowly. It will take at least 30 minutes to reach the desired temperature. Use a dairy thermometer.

To test the curd to see if it has been heated enough, dip a few cubes into cold water. If the cubes are firm, hold their shape and contain little whey, they have been heated enough.

Strain through a thin sack or two layers of cheese cloth and drain until the curd is dry. Put curd into a pan, add about 1 teaspoon of salt and about 1/4 to 1/2 cup of cream. The cream makes the cottage cheese of the right consistency.

FREEZING COTTAGE CHEESE
To freeze cottage cheese wash the curd and salt it lightly. Do not add cream. Package in small amounts in moisture-vapor proof containers. Seal, label and freeze immediately.

It may be stored for as long as five months. Salt cottage cheese to taste before serving.

COTTAGE CHEESE SNACKS
Combine 2 cups cottage cheese, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and 2 tablespoons chopped peanuts. Mix thoroughly. Spread on potato chips and serve immediately.

COTTAGE CHEESE SANDWICHES

Spread whole wheat bread with softened butter and a filling made by mixing 1 cup cottage cheese, 2 grated carrots and 2 sprigs of chopped parsley. Add cream if needed to make the cheese spread.

Other foods mixed with cottage cheese to make good sandwiches are: Bits of bacon and finely chopped onion and pepper. Olives and nuts. Pickles or relishes that have been drained.

Mississippi's 5 best Growing Years

The past five years have been growing years for Mississippi and most of its industries. . . Your Telephone Company, for instance, has almost doubled its list of subscribers in the state during this brief period.

Yes, between January, 1946 and this July, Southern Bell added 103,269 new subscribers, or almost the number we added during our first 65 years in the state!

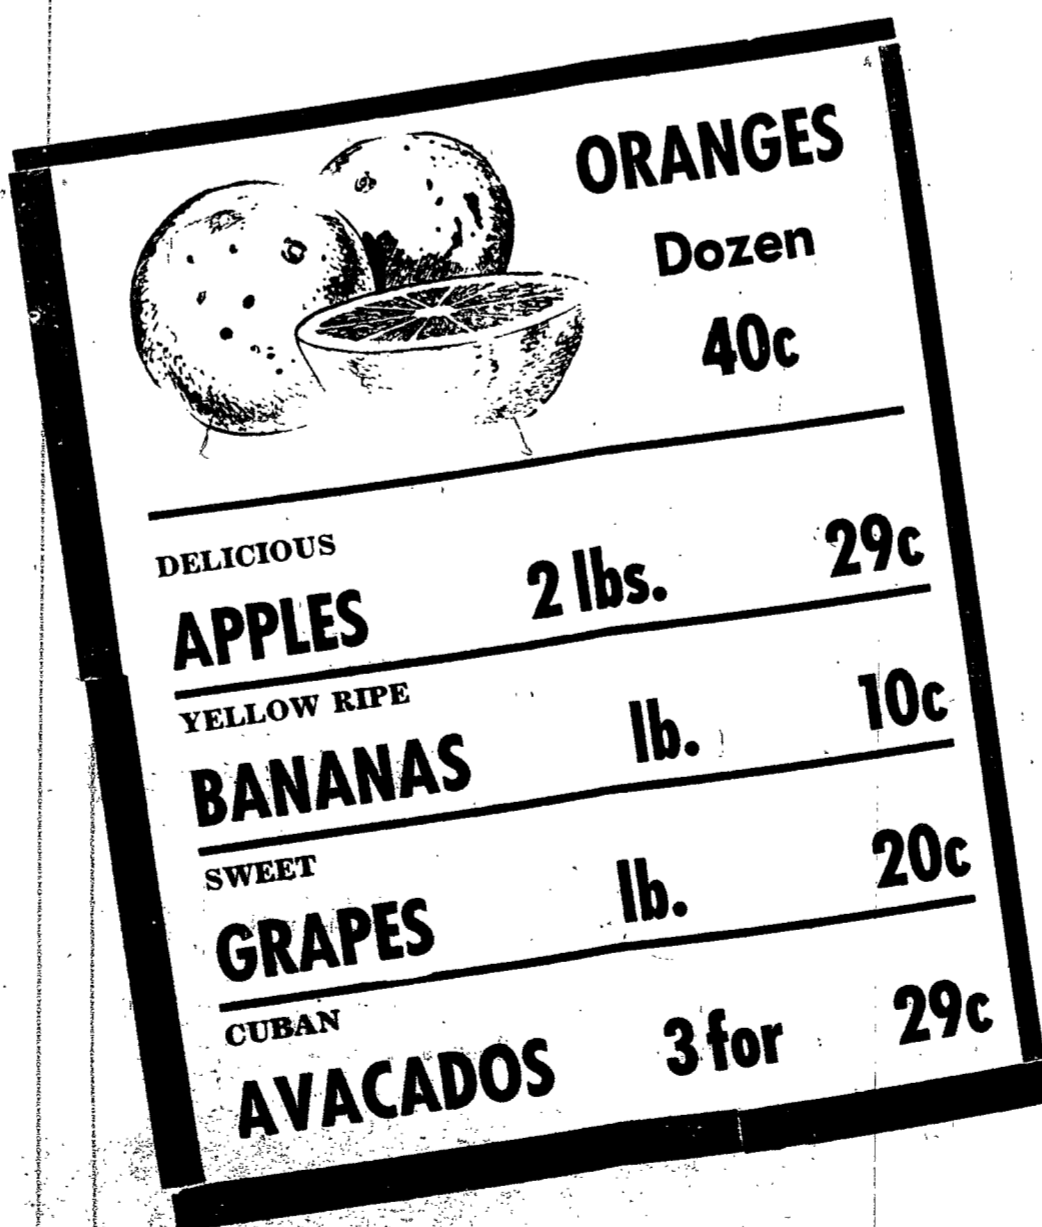

During these 5 1/2 years, extending our lines and expanding our plant to serve all those new subscribers cost more than 45 million dollars! That vast sum had to be secured from investors, because the monthly rates you pay for telephone service do not — and are not intended to — cover new construction!

Telephone rates, however, must be sufficient to cover the operation and maintenance of existing facilities and to pay investors a fair rate for the use of their money in order that we may continue to attract needed capital. What Mississippians pay for telephone service, therefore, has a lot to do with our ability to keep up with the demand for new telephones, now at an all-time peak in our state.

Purchase Your Western Lambs Now

By JAMES TOLER

All producers interested in getting western lambs should begin some serious planning now as normally October 10 to 15 is about as late as good western lambs can be secured.

While this is 20 to 30 days too early for our winter grazing, good quality permanent pastures will serve to bridge the gap. Johnson grass or lespedeza meadows or a combination of both are excellent. Corn, interplanted with soybeans is excellent grazing for lambs.

Dip all lambs coming into the state to eliminate external parasites. After lambs have time to recover from shipping, drench them for internal parasites.

MANAGEMENT. The pay off from next year's lamb crop will pretty well be determined by flock management. Try to market each year an average of one lamb from each ewe in the flock. Have lambs ready for market when about five months old. Market lambs should weigh about 80 to 90 pounds and for best profits, should be sold by June 1 or earlier.

Select lambs that are smooth and uniform. Buy good thrifty lambs weighing 55 to 60 pounds. SHEARING. Lambs brought into the state between October 1 and October 15 should be sheared. If you do not shear the lambs this fall, make sure that wool is clipped from their

They stayed on a small island until Tuesday morning. When the report of their plight reached Glover and Jaeger, they went to their assistance.

Congressional Sidelights

by Congressman Wm. M. Colmer

HOUSE RECONVENING

After a 19 day recess designed to give the slower moving Senate an opportunity to catch up on the legislative program, the House reconvened on September 28. It found awaiting it five major bills that it had passed some weeks ago and that the Senate had acted upon during the recess. Four of these were appropriated bills and the fifth was the Mutual Security Act of 1951, the new foreign aid bill. It promptly sent these to conference to iron out the differences between the versions of the two houses. While in session each day the House is still actually marking time waiting on conference reports and Senate action. That body, as usual, holds the key to final adjournment. Several weeks ago the Senate Majority Leader, after a conference with the President and with other congressional leaders, fixed October 1 as a target date for adjournment, but there is now talk that it may be October 13 before Congress winds up its business for this session. Principal hurdles still in the way are the new tax bill, which is being debated in the Senate as this is written, and proposed amendments to the new controls bill which were requested by the President during the House recess.

NEW TUNG BILL

The Department of Agriculture has given the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee its comments on the new tung bill that we introduced this session. This bill would set up a system of quotas for the importation of tung oil similar to that now in effect for sugar. It would also impose a duty of 25 per cent on imported tung oil when the domestic price falls below the support price set by the Secretary of Agriculture. While it is conceded that so long as there is an embargo on trade with China the domestic tung producer needs no protection, the legislation was designed to set up a long range program for the encouragement of this infant industry. It was designed to forestall a possible return to the situation that prevailed prior to the outbreak of the Korean conflict. Red China was then exporting tung oil at a figure one cent below the Congressional Sidelights Cont. support price and just low enough to undersell the domestic producers and beat down the domestic price. This situation resulted in the Commodity Credit Corporation's having to purchase some of the domestic crop. This Government-owned tung oil has since been disposed of without loss to the Government but that would not have been possible without the increased military need for tung oil brought on by the Korean War.

Unfortunately, the Department of Agriculture has not seen fit to approve the proposed legislation. The Department takes the position that there is sufficient authority now available to restrict importations of tung oil. However, one of

by

W. F. BOND, Commissioner State Department Public Welfare

During the twelve month period closing June 30 of this year, 835 families representing approximately 2400 dependent children have been taken off the public assistance rolls on account of lack of funds and also because there was a man living in or about the home in a common-law relationship. Many of the children were illegitimate. In cases where the mother refused to divulge the name of the father, the children were removed from the payroll.

Ever since the days of Abraham, what to do for and with the illegitimate child has been a big problem. Abraham gave his illegitimate son, Ishmael, and the child's mother, Hagar, a loaf of bread and a jug of water and set them adrift in the desert to look out for themselves. They survived somehow and in after years the Ishmaelites, the descendants of Ishmael, caused lots of trouble. Perhaps if Abraham had kept Ishmael in his own home or made some provision for him to be cared for, he would have grown up to be a fine, law-abiding citizen. Any child, illegitimate or otherwise, that is denied or deprived of its rights as a human being, will very likely grow up to be a trouble maker and in the end, cost society more than it would have if they had given it a chance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Scates, Jackson, were greeting friends here on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Scates are former residents of Bay St. Louis.
